

What is a Biblical worldview?

A Biblical worldview means seeing all of life through the truth of Scripture. It means believing that God is Creator and final authority, that every person bears His image, that human beings are affected by sin, and that salvation is found in Jesus Christ.

God's truth should shape how we live, lead, vote and serve others.

Before supporting a policy, ask:

- Does it protect innocent human life?
- Does it recognize biological truth?
- Does it strengthen marriage and family?
- Does it honor parents' authority over their children?
- Does it protect religious liberty and freedom of conscience?
- Does it preserve freedom of speech?
- Does it administer justice equally?
- Does it keep government within its proper role?
- Does it protect vulnerable people without giving government unnecessary control?
- Does it encourage personal responsibility, compassion and wise stewardship?
